"John Der has the gift of the raconteur who, in a single glance, a single effort, can fix an instant in life and capture the attitudes and gestures of ordinary people" wrote Paul Tex Lecor the painter. Life is his subject, and I recently witnessed his immense talent while window shopping one Sunday afternoon on Sussex drive in Ottawa, This attractive Ottawa street has much to offer the creative impulse of many saunterers, as they can appreciate and reflect the beauty and charm shown in window displays so meticulously created. These shops highlight and promote the talent of Canadian artists that influence fashion trends and capture by the stroke of their brush the beauty of life and the warmth of human behavior. As I passed in front of Art Mode Gallery, I glanced at the many paintings that embellished the gallery walls, although the store was closed, the multitude of colours brought life to the quiet ambiance and it was almost like I was intruding in a world of captured moments coming alive that evening.

While admiring the many painted pictures, my attention was intercepted by the gust of wind coming from a painting just a few feet away. I was amazed, astonished, proud and most certainly speechless as the painting I was applauding depicted a subject so very dear to my heart and of course to so many others, the subject was the sport of ringette. I was deeply touched by the simplicity and authenticity of each figure.

Denis P. Smith from Art Mode Gallery, was very helpful in providing us with the required information enabling us to contact John Der and his agent Denis Beauchamp. Both were very pleased of Ringette Canada's enthusiasm towards the painting and its creator. I was impressed with John Der's delicate, sincere and human reaction towards our request of highlighting his work in the Annual Ringette Review. I would like to take this opportunity to thank them for approving such an initiative and offering us the opportunity to promote and share the talent of a Canadian artist that has been qualified as one of our greats.

John Der's style has been described as a form of humouristic and social expressionism which is uniquely his own. His work therefore depicts the subjective emotions aroused in him by objects and events. When asked about his impressions on ringette, he replied by saying he was quite impressed with the speed and competitive spirit the players demonstrated.

As we celebrate our 30th anniversary, let us reflect on the many achievements we have accomplished and the pride we all share for the sport of ringette. Thank you John Der for offering us the honour of sharing your vision of ringette and providing the art community with such a wonderful piece. *

John Der
