Art show promotes artists, local charity

The works of painter Tex Lecor and several other artists are on display to benefit the volunteer auxiliary of the St-Lambert Hospital. On the weekend of Oct. 30-31 this artist's collection joins others for a display at Champlain College. On Saturday the exhibition is open from 11 a.m. until 8 p.m.; on Sunday from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Called "Les peintres du dimanche", the event is organized by the Association de Créations des Artisans et Peintres du Québec.

Admission to the exhibition is one dollar with a portion of the entrance fee going to the volunteer centre. Those attending have a chance to win a door prize — an art piece valued at $250.

Lecor is represented by St-Lambert art gallery Balcon d'Arts.
